

Girls Night Out

Girls have been having a ball at Friars events ever since Friar Phyllis Diller snuck into Friar Sid Caesar's stag Roast (dressed up in suit and mustache) so it was very nice for the ladies to have their own night of music, comedy and fun and they didn't even have to put on a tie.

Friar Maureen Langan (The Joy Behar Show, MSNBC), one of the funniest ladies in the business, was Mistress of Ceremonies. "Did you see that Paris Hilton was caught with cocaine? I would have been a lot more shocked if Paris Hilton was caught with a book." "I used to want to be a better person but I found that exhausting. Now I hang out with fat slobs struggling to get their GED's and I feel great about me."

Carol Siskind (The Tonight Show) talked about the perils of internet dating, "I met a guy online but he is much younger than I am and frankly I'm not sure I can keep up. He types so fast."

Friar Esther Ku (Last Comic Standing, Howard Stern) joked, "My parents moved here from Korea with $800 dollars and then they bought a couch for $700 and now they owe Raymour & Flanagan $10,000."

Kerri Louise (Oprah, Dr. Oz) on motherhood: "I have twin boys. They are in the car. Don't worry they aren't driving. The windows are cracked, seatbelts are on. Mommy's got to go to work."

Cabaret stars Selena Cantor and Judi Mark made sure the show fell under the "variety" category by providing some great songs. Judi (who produced the evening along with Friar Rick Newman) paid homage to several talented "girls" by taking on the singing personas of Carmen Miranda, Eartha Kitt and Ginger Rogers (complete with dancing partners Jill Kenney and Germaine Salsberg) accompanied by The Paul Chamlin Trio on piano.

It was a fun night with a great group of gals.
